Postgraduate Research Bursary Rules

1. The Society offers up to two Bursaries of £500 each year (1 April to 31 March) which are designed to encourage and promote high quality, publishable research by individual research students.

2. The Bursaries are available to postgraduate students, of any nationality, who are actively working for a Masters or Doctorate in which their research includes significant work on the life and/or works of Anthony Powell.

3. All other things being equal, the Society will give priority to work that will be published.

4. Applications must be made on the Bursary Application Form, which may be downloaded from the Society’s website, and include:
   - a copy of the applicant’s current curriculum vitae
   - a brief outline of the thesis plan and methodology
   - a description of the research to be undertaken, with an explanation of its importance and an indication of how it is expected to be published or otherwise made available in the public domain
   - an indication of how the bursary will assist in the research

5. Applications must be countersigned by the applicant’s academic supervisor.

6. Applicants may make no more than one application in any 12 month period and no individual will normally receive more than one award during their postgraduate career.

7. Applications may be made at any time.

8. The proposed research is expected to be completed within twelve months of the application.

9. On completion of the funded research, applicants are expected to submit to the Society a written report of 500 words. The Society reserves the right to publish this report or otherwise make it available as a demonstration of fulfilment of its public benefit objective.

10. Successful applicants will receive one half of the bursary in advance of the project start date. The remaining half will be paid on completion and receipt of the written report of the research (see paragraph 9), which must be no later than six months following the stated completion date.

11. It is expected that the results of the supported work are made public (for example by presentation at a relevant conference or by publication). Any published work which draws on the supported research should acknowledge the support received from the Society.

12. Applications for Bursaries should be sent to Anthony Powell Society Bursaries at the Secretary’s mailing address shown on the Application Form copied to email secretary@anthonypowell.org

13. Applications will be considered and approved by the Society’s Trustees.

14. If required, further information may be obtained from the Secretary of the Society.
